

We pray...

God of ages past and of all that is present, we uphold unto you those faithful servants who have gone before us:

whose souls fractured the crust of sunbaked earth, to plough the fields of faith;

whose hands scattered upon the fallowed soil, grains of faithful service and worship.

Who formed from bricks and mortar, resolute havens: of sanctuaries aged and weathered yet of enduring growth; of sacrifice, of tears and joy coursing through and within the bricks and mortar.

Whose voices reside in threads of memories woven into a tapestry of faith; a sacred tapestry intrinsically connected to present times.

May we who remain as custodians of their heritage steadfastly honour them, as we walk onward in faith.

Amen
